In the 1920s, a wide array of opal glass shades was introduced on the market which were designed on the basics and the demands of Scientific Lighting and the principle of Modernism, Form follows Function. Despite all functional requirements, these shades had beautiful Art Deco influenced shapes.

One hundred years later, these shapes form the basis and starting point of the TwentyTwenty Collection. In combination with newly designed fittings, a wide range of typologies and combinations are made possible and bring these shades into a new century.
